

11. Sync to your phone

You can subscribe to a store's agenda in your phone calendar (Apple, Google, etc.).

- Introduction
- 11.1 Tips

Introduction

You can subscribe to a store's agenda in your phone calendar (Apple, Google, etc.).

1. In the agenda toolbar, click Sync to phone (or open Calendar Export).
2. Create a feed and choose what to export: the whole store, one or more professionals, or one or more services. You can include or hide the customer details.
3. For each feed you get: Add to iPhone (`webcal://`), Add to Google, copy the link, QR, and download a one-time .ics file.
4. You can revoke a feed at any time (the link stops working).

The link is private (it carries an unguessable token), so calendar apps can fetch it without signing in. A regular employee can only export their own agenda.

“ ? `11-calendar-export.png` — Calendar export page with a feed and the add options.
Calendar export

11.1 Tips

- The subscription updates itself in the phone calendar (it's not a one-time export). For a static copy, use the .ics download.
- Revoke a feed if the link is shared by mistake — it stops working immediately.
- Include customer details only in private feeds; for a calendar shared with the team, hide them ("Appointment" as a busy block).

“ ? Scenario: each barber adds the feed with their agenda to iPhone; the manager adds the whole-store feed to Google.

Next: Business settings.